the state and was selected chairman of the economy and efficiency committee. He was the first man to introduce budget legislation in the national discussion and later carried his budget bill into congress. The first trial given saved the government over a billion and a half dollars in public expenditures.

Another important movement which her husband had introduced and sponsored, was the child labor amendment to the constitution, she said.

As a member of both the foreign relations and finance committees, she said, Senator McCormick was the only man to be thus honored, and as a member of the foreign relations committee, many hard tasks confronted him in the next two or three months.

Mrs. McCormick closed her address explaining conditions in Europe today as observed by her during her lengthy tour of a year ago.

SUCCESS—
He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often, and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men, and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem, or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty, or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory a benediction.
—Bessie A. Stanley.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS—
Griddle Cakes.
In making griddle cakes with sweet milk omit soda and add two teaspoons of baking powder and one tablespoon melted butter.

Heat in Advance.
For broiling or toasting, have the oven burners lighted and the doors closed at least five minutes before using the oven.
Restores Flavor.
Boiling expels air from water and purifies it, but also makes it taste flat. Boiled water should be poured back and forth several times from one pitcher to another, or shaken in a large bottle, to restore its flavor.

Greasing Griddle.
Use a piece of beef suet on a fork to grease your pancake griddle.

Cleaning Zinc.
Zinc discolors very easily. Every drop of water allowed to stand on it makes a spot. This may be cleaned with a little kerosene rubbed on with a flannel or damp cloth.

Damp Towel.
When baking in the kitchen keep a damp towel at hand on which to wipe your fingers as they become sticky, and you will probably keep your apron much tidier.

One Cupful.
Twelve tablespoons of liquid are equivalent to one cupful.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY.
(A Daily Menu for the Stout and Thin)
EAT AND—LOSE WEIGHT.

Two whole stewed dried pears, one soft boiled egg, 1/2 cup strained vegetable soup, 6 ounces roast leg of spring lamb, 2 tablespoons mint sauce, 12 stalks fresh asparagus, grapefruit and celery salad, 2 toasted water crackers with one ounce Roquefort cheese, "demi-tasse" black unsweetened coffee, 3 radishes, two olives, 1 stalk celery, 2 crisp pieces unbuttered whole wheat toast, 1 pint skimmed milk.
Total calories, 1101. Protein, 293; fat, 356; carbohydrate, 452. Iron, .0173 gram.
This menu is planned as a suggestion for a formal dinner at home or at a restaurant. The pears, egg and toast could be used as breakfast and the skimmed milk can be divided between luncheon and a hot "night-cap."
The pears are of course unsweetened and the egg is seasoned with salt and pepper but no butter.
Many persons on a reducing diet find it advisable to use very little or no salt.

GAIN WEIGHT.
Two whole well sweetened stewed dried pears, 2 tablespoons hash with 1 poached egg on toast, 1 cup cream of spinach soup with 1 tablespoon whipped cream, 4 ounces baked sausage with 2 buckwheat pancakes and 2 tablespoons maple sirup, 1/2 cup creamed carrots, 1/2 cup consommé, 6 ounces roast leg of lamb, 2 tablespoons mint sauce, 3 new potatoes in parsley butter, 12 stalks fresh asparagus with 3 tablespoons drawn butter sauce, grapefruit and celery salad with 4 tablespoons olive oil, 1/2 cup fresh strawberry ice cream, 4 macaroons, 2 toasted water crackers with 1 ounce Roquefort cheese, 3 radishes, 4 olives, 3 tablespoons butter, 2 "hard" rolls, 1 pint whole milk, 2 toasted bread sticks.
Total calories, 3556. Protein, 421; fat, 1652; carbohydrate, 1883. Iron, .0182 gram.
The whipped cream for the spinach soup is seasoned with salt.
No dessert is provided for the luncheon menu as the hot cakes and maple sirup are in the nature of a sweet.
In the event that sausage is not desired, ham timbales or a club sandwich should be substituted. Hot water or very weak tea will be beneficial with the luncheon.
No coffee is suggested for the gaining diet as even a demi-tasse is too stimulating for undernourished persons.

Had Old Fashioned Costume Party
On last Friday evening an old fashioned costume party was held at the Randall Green home on the Chicago road, which was attended by about seventy guests. The evening was a happy one, the old fashioned dances being enjoyed and games played. The Virginia Reel and the other old dances were prime favorites. Four of the ladies in attendance wore their wedding gowns of twenty or more years ago.
Very appetizing refreshments were served at midnight and a most enjoyable evening was spent by everyone present.

American Legion Auxiliary Meeting
The all-day meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary held in Legion hall Tuesday, March 25th, was greatly enjoyed by all who attended.
In spite of the stormy day there was a good attendance of interested members who spent the day in sewing carpet bags for the benefit of the ex-service men in the Hines hospital at Maywood.
At noon a delicious picnic dinner was served. In the afternoon more ladies arrived to enjoy the social hour.
While the attendance was not what it should have been the members of the committee are grateful to the loyal women who braved the storm and attended in the interest of the ex-service men.
During the afternoon refreshments were served, and during the afternoon it was voted to hold meetings monthly that the work might progress faster.

REBEKAH SEWING CLUB MEETS FRIDAY—
The president of the Rebekah Sewing club has issued a call for a special meeting to be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 in I. O. O. F. hall. As many as possible are urged to attend. All members are requested to bring their baskets and aid in the preparation of the picnic supper to be enjoyed.

The Riverside Community Circle of the Kingdom have postponed the regular meeting of the Circle, which was to have met Friday, March 28, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sanford, until Friday evening, April 4th. The usual picnic supper will be served at 7 o'clock.

WOOL FRINGE EFFECTIVE
The ideal club held a very pleasant meeting Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Henry Leydig as hostess. All the members being present, except one. Two visitors from Sterling were entertained. Misses, Hooftstetter and Woods, nieces of Mrs. Leydig.
Roll call was responded to with pleasing quotations from various authors.

At a dance in 1917, a friend of the owner placed the ring in the snake's mouth and the two were unable to retrieve it.

COVERED WAGONS OF THE AIR.

On the outside of the envelope was written: "To be opened only after my death." This had been penned and sealed by Captain Hyde-Pearson, World War flier and air mail pilot. Death came to him when his plane crashed among the Pennsylvania hills while carrying mail from New York westward.

This was the message he left inside the envelope:

"To my beloved brother pilots and pals—I go west, but with a cheerful heart. I hope what small sacrifice I have made may be of use to the cause. When we fly, we are damned fools, they say. When we are dead, we weren't half bad fellows. But everyone in this wonderful aviation service is doing the world far more good than the public can appreciate. We risk our necks; we give our lives; we perfect a service for the benefit of the world at large. They, mind you, are the ones who call us fools. But stick to it, boys. I'm still very much with you all. See you all again."

This brave flying captain was as surely a pioneer and explorer as the courageous Americans who, only a few generations ago, went into the unknown west on horseback or in covered wagons.

The men who fly are developing a great new transportation service. They have the prophetic vision to realize the future of aviation. Willingly they gamble their lives. A thoughtless public may imagine the fliers risk their necks for the sheer adventure and thrill of flight. Truth is, they are as serious about their work as the mounted scouts who invaded our western plains at the head of millions of settlers to follow.

Flying is a serious business, not a circus performance. This much we learn from the life and last message of Captain Hyde-Pearson.

The captain quite evidently had a premonition of death. It is not the custom of men, unless they have such premonitions, to leave envelopes marked: "To be opened only after my death."

Many will wonder what he meant by his closing lines: "Stick to it, boys. I'm still very much with you all. See you all again."

In those lines is the firm belief that death is only a change—a farewell flight into unknown but better regions. Hail and farewell, brave Captain Hyde-Pearson, as you fly westward into the sunset.

SUICIDE.

Germany announces that 5106 of her soldiers committed suicide during the World War.

That is a very low rate—much fewer than the number that would have taken their lives if the war years had been peaceful.

At least 10,000 Americans a year commit suicide. What irony, that people are more hopeful in war than peace!

On the other hand, their must have been thousands of Germans who killed themselves but were recorded as victims of enemy bullets.

MORE JOBS.

New wonders of science, latest movie sensations—these are interesting. But, after all, to the average man the most important matter is jobs—plenty of work.

The news along this line is good. Uncle Sam's Department of Labor checks up and finds that the number on the pay roll of manufacturing concerns increased better than 1 per cent in February. That's not a lot, to be sure. But it's the first general gain since last June. Times are looking better.

RUSS.

Two important developments in Russia indicate the Bolsheviks expect to remain on the job indefinitely:

They issue orders to remove the word

"Russia" from all maps and documents. There's no longer any such country as Russia. In stead, it's the Federation of Soviet Republics.

Financiers say the Reds have abandoned hope of ever reviving the value of the ruble. The ruble printing presses have been stored in the national museum. A new currency, silver coins, is being put into circulation. Rulers have confidence in their ability to hold their jobs when they, in effect, repudiate their own money.

BACKWARD.

Schools for feeble minded and subnormal children are steadily increasing their activities. In 1900 there were only 29 such schools in America, with 10,217 pupils. Now there are at least 220 schools with over 65,000 pupils.

Backward children in former generations were given up as hopeless, often even ridiculed. Now we know that in many cases they require only special training to bring them to normal or in the immediate neighborhood. Yes, we're learning—though slowly—about that most mysterious thing in creation, the human brain.

ESCAPED TAXES.

A lot of talk about this tax plan and that, about the big and little taxpayers and which is in most need of relief.

In the discussion, every one seems to have forgotten the great majority who pay no income tax at all. There are 102 million people in America who escape the income tax, and at least 47 millions are adults.

Any changes in income taxes will eventually affect all of these people who do not pay. Taxation of any sort is a brake on general prosperity, also a powerful influence in shaping the distribution of wealth.

INCURABLE.

In 1872, London lung specialists advised Rebecca Winter to make her will. They broke the news gently—she had incurable tuberculosis. Yet she did not die until the other day. For 52 years she had lived suffering from an "incurable disease."

She confirms Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes' observation that the way to live to a ripe old age is to contract an incurable malady and nurse it.

Rum smuggled into the United States in the last two years is said to have cost the government $164,000,000 in unpaid duties. Nothing is said about the cost to the public in doctor and undertaking bills.

The more marks and francs can be bought for an American dollar, the more ready Germany and France are to listen to American sense.

The Scandinavian peoples have not been mixed up in a war for more than 100 years. That is another reason why Uncle Sam is preferring the Nordic races as immigrants.

The view-point of the Democratic editors and politicians seems to be that every Republican officeholder is guilty until proved innocent.

We suppose President Coolidge occasionally looks back longingly to the quiet, humdrum days when the Boston policemen were on strike.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 11—FOUR DOOFUNNY HORSES

"Yes, sir," the saw-horse was saying.

Nancy and Nick and Master Fuzz Wuzz were walking along through Doofunny Land when they heard voices.

"Listen!" said Master Fuzz Wuzz, softly. "It's those horses! They're always arguing about who is the most important. Come, let's hear what they have to say about themselves this time. But keep as still as you can, or you'll spoil it all."

"Yes, sir," the saw-horse was saying. "There isn't anybody here quite as important as I. I am not only the largest of all the animals, but I am the smartest."

"I don't see how you get that!" retorted the hobby-horse, with a snort. "You certainly don't know much about grammar or you'd know enough to call yourself a see-horse. Who ever heard of a saw-horse? But I know that here are see-horses. They live in the sea."

"No," spoke up the clothes-horse. "He isn't either a see-horse or a saw-horse. He's a see-saw horse, because they put boards over him to make a see-saw."

"You are all very ignorant!" snorted the saw-horse. "Don't you know that I am called a saw-horse because they put boards over me to saw into pieces? It shows what a strong back I have and how useful I am in the world. Why, look at you, hobby horse, you can't even stand up alone! You haven't a foot. Much use you are—a wooden head stuck on a broomstick! Why you are called a hobby I can't say."

"Well, I may not have feet, but no one can say I can't get around. Look at the rocking horse!"

"I will say that he doesn't cover much ground!" acknowledged the saw-horse, thoughtfully.

"Well, I declare!" whinnied the rocking horse. "Why I'm the only real horse in the crowd. Look at me, a real mane and a real tail, and a saddle and stirrups and every thing."

"Words! Words!" spoke a deep voice. "Handsomeness is as handsomeness! I'm the only real worker in the lot. I have nine backs. And each of my backs carries a heavy burden. On ironing day I am trusted with the entire family washing."

"Pooh!" neighed the hobby horse. "A willing horse can do all the work. Didn't you ever hear that?"

Master Fuzz Wuzz stepped out at that. "Gentlemen," said he, "I have decided to let you have a race to see which of you is the greatest. That is always a good way to tell a good horse."

"Well—if you don't mind, I'm a bit late today," declared the saw-horse, "so please excuse me."

"And—you'll please excuse me, too," whinnied the hobby horse. "I'm a trifle short-winded. I can't run."

"And I never race—I'm against my principles!" declared the clothes horse. "And—and I—well, I can't race alone, can I?" said the rocking horse.

"My, my my!" laughed Master Fuzz Wuzz. "What do you think of these proud monsters, children?"

Is One of Nature's Danger Signals. A Healthy Bladder Does Not Act at Night.

Irritation, excessive acidity or abnormal deposits may be the cause. It needs cleansing. Litled Buchu (Keller Formula) acts on the kidneys and bladder as Epsom Salts on the bowels. R. D. Nehls, 10 Oak St., Battle Creek, Mich., says: "For three years had to get up three times at night. Litled Buchu (Keller Formula) helped me in two days. I now do heavy work." It isn't a patent medicine. The formula is on the label. Sold by leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicalburg, Ohio.

Well the bad weather and roads are good for one thing anyhow. They have stirred up a favor for hard roads. The village aldermen held special sessions Monday and Tuesday in order to draft a bond issue to have a 20 foot strip graveled on Main street from the Standard Oil station west, thence north and south to meet the township road leading to the "four corners." With Viola bringing their hard road to Dysart's corner and with the county's graveled the Chicago road we will be pretty well fixed in that line.

August Degner drove over from near Ashton Friday and called on his old time friends.

get over my disappointment in you. I think, now there is nothing in all the world so terrible to bear as the disappointment of shattering ideals.

"Some day when I have forgotten, some day when I shall have put the man I thought you were out of my heart, I will, I hope, love the man you really are."

"Leslie, I am only human," Jack said in a suffocating voice.

"I know it—I have just found it out. I made you a god and I have found the feet of clay that all women probably do, who let their love endow a man with superhuman qualities."

It seemed to me I must be alone. I must have time to adjust myself. I got to my feet somewhat unsteadily, and walked into the next room where the baby lay—Jack Alden Prescott, Jr.

I felt my lips curl into a rather painful smile as I remembered Jack's mother saying what a terrible thing it was that we should give Jack's name to a baby of whom we knew nothing except that in its veins there was none of the splendid old and staunch Puritan blood of her son's forefathers.

In John Alden Prescott Jr.'s veins was the blood of the old Puritans of which she was so proud, but her loved son had placed the bar sinister across his forehead.

As I thought this, I knew that my duty was clear. I remained for me to give John Alden Prescott Jr. his father's name. It remained for me to say nothing to anyone, not even his mother, of what John had told me. It remained for me to keep silent, even when I knew the scandal-mongers' tongues were buzzing about my head.

Swiftly I went toward the little bed upon which my baby was sleeping. Convulsively I clasped him to my heart.

"Oh, baby, baby, you are mine! And I love you perhaps more because out of all the world now, I choose you. And I am proud that I am big enough to give you your father's name. You need never know."

When I suggested, little Marquise, that I might give you John more easily than the boy he looked hurt, but he managed to ask:

"Then you don't intend to give me us, Leslie?"

For answer I questioned him:

"What do you think would happen in this world, John, if every woman would refuse to forgive the man she married all the sins and mistakes he made before he married her, or us in your case, before he even knew her? I'm going to try and forget it all, dear. It may take some time but I think I can do it. Oh, John, I want to forget, I want to forget, for unless I do I shall never be happy again."

Jack tried to pull me over to him. "No, don't," I said, involuntarily. "I just can't bear it now, you know."

"Then you haven't really forgiven me."

"Yes, I have—or rather I have nothing to forgive. I just can't quite

MURRAY BOOSTERS ADDRESS A LETTER TO T. J. MILLER, JR.

State Murray's Record During War Has Been Misrepresented.

(AN OPEN LETTER TO THEODORE J. MILLER, JR.)
March 26, 1924.
Mr. Theodore J. Miller, Jr.,
Dixon, Illinois

Dear Sir:

Owing to the fact that it appears from certain correspondence with various Lee county men that the yellow slips sent out by you in your letter to the ex-service men under date of March 6th were not sent to all ex-service men, this open letter is hereby written in order to put your stand and ours clearly before the fair minded ex-service men of Lee and adjoining counties.

On March 6th, Mr. Miller, you sent out a letter under the letterhead of the Ex-Service Men's Republican Organization of Lee County and signed by yourself as chairman. Accompanying this letter was a yellow slip accusing William E. Murray, Whiteside county's candidate for Congress, of being of military age, but of not being in the military service.

Shortly before the opening of the campaign, Mr. Miller, you, among other ex-service men of Lee county, was called upon by a committee composed of several ex-service men from Whiteside county. In this delegation were the former heads of several military societies; nearly all were overseas veterans and one member of the delegation was cited for conspicuous bravery on the battlefields of France. If you will remember you stated that you were going on jury duty and would not have time to talk. You intimated however that the members of ment. We are addressing you because as soon as the letter was received in Whiteside county we called you on the phone and were informed by you that you assumed all responsibility for what had been done.

We have no quarrel with the gentleman who is opposing Mr. Murray. We are reliably informed that this gentleman, had he known what you were doing, would not have allowed such matter to go out.

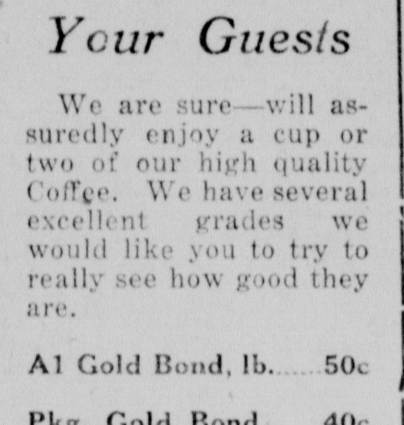

But, Mr. Miller, not only have you seen fit to misrepresent Mr. Murray in this way but you also misrepresented him in another. You state in your letter that your candidate was instrumental in obtaining the postmaster'ship of Oregon for a disabled and crippled service man against the desire and efforts of Congressman McKenzie which is an indirect slap at Mr. Murray. You evidently made no investigation. Had you made one you would have found that the files in the Oregon postmaster'ship fight show no letter of endorsement for Harlan Kauffman from your candidate. Had you taken the trouble to investigate you would have received an answer from the hero postmaster of Oregon as did we, in which he states: "Mr. McKenzie and his secretary, Mr. Murray, made the appointment and have been most loyal to me and to the ex-service cause generally."

We do not believe, Mr. Miller, that your actions are endorsed by the majority of the ex-service men of Lee county, whether they happen to be for Mr. Murray or against him. We get over my disappointment in you. I think, now there is nothing in all the world so terrible to bear as the disappointment of shattering ideals.

"Some day when I have forgotten, some day when I shall have put the man I thought you were out of my heart, I will, I hope, love the man you really are."

"Leslie, I am only human," Jack said in a suffocating voice.

"I know it—I have just found it out. I made you a god and I have found the feet of clay that all women probably do, who let their love endow a man with superhuman qualities."

It seemed to me I must be alone. I must have time to adjust myself. I got to my feet somewhat unsteadily, and walked into the next room where the baby lay—Jack Alden Prescott, Jr.

I felt my lips curl into a rather painful smile as I remembered Jack's mother saying what a terrible thing it was that we should give Jack's name to a baby of whom we knew nothing except that in its veins there was none of the splendid old and staunch Puritan blood of her son's forefathers.

In John Alden Prescott Jr.'s veins was the blood of the old Puritans of which she was so proud, but her loved son had placed the bar sinister across his forehead.

As I thought this, I knew that my duty was clear. I remained for me to give John Alden Prescott Jr. his father's name. It remained for me to say nothing to anyone, not even his mother, of what John had told me. It remained for me to keep silent, even when I knew the scandal-mongers' tongues were buzzing about my head.

Swiftly I went toward the little bed upon which my baby was sleeping. Convulsively I clasped him to my heart.

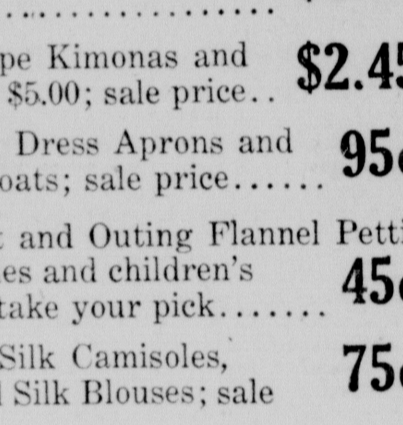

"Oh, baby, baby, you are mine! And I love you perhaps more because out of all the world now, I choose you. And I am proud that I am big enough to give you your father's name. You need never know."

TOMOR

ROCKS AND ROSES

(For Those Who Deserve Them.)

(BY H. H. CRABTREE)

And we were just starting out a couple of Sundays ago, for a walk, when we met a fellow with a card in his hand, with our name on it, but the wrong address. And you'd never guess in ninety thousand years who it was. He told us he had been looking for us since last September. Gee, but we were sure glad to see this old pal of ours, as he is about the fourth or fifth one of the Old Guard we have seen since being out here, more than twenty years ago. And he looked just the same to us as of yore, except a trifle older, but with no grey hairs in his belt. And he peddled some of the same old line of bull he used to do, that he feels fit and young enough to join the Boy Scouts and can outwalk us, etc.; but we shall see, one of these fine days! We were both raised along the same river, which winds through the Rock River Valley, and it will now soon be thirty-six years since we took a "trip" together, along with a lot of others.

And we have been over to his house several times since, as he has come to Sunny Cal. to spend the rest of his days—and live longer. He has had a lot of hard luck since we last saw him—been burned out twice—had seven children, lost four by death—had a lot of sickness in his family—oftimes been out of a job—but he is now here, as his Uncle Sammy has transferred him from the Mid-West to a good position in Los Angeles.

And he brought back memories of the days gone by, when we were together, under very different circumstances, than now. We had a lot of laughs, and a few sighs, as we talked of this one and that one, wondering what they were all doing, wherever they may be—and that includes every where—and how the world was using them and wished them all well and that we might see them again. And, perhaps, somebody's ears were burning back there—at least, we hope so! And his good wife played on the piano for us, and we read a letter which he had received from one of the boys, who has had hard luck, been sick and lost a leg through an operation. And we looked at some old photographs which he had, one of whom had a big gun in his hand, but he never killed anybody (and is glad of it) and none came back wearing "wound stripes," the nearest any of 'em ever got to that, likely, was when quite young, by being stuck with a safety-pin—ahem—while reclining "at ease" in a crib.

And he told of an experience he had had with one of his old comrades, over at Rock Island, which made us peeped to hear. Who'd a think it of him! Can you feature anybody treating an old friend like that? But we have his number. What we think of a guy like that wouldn't look good in print! If he were here, we'd call him a few names and take him over to the laboratory and have his brains rained out. They say a million atoms can sit side by side, on the edge of a playing card; we believe that several hundred of this sort of a (?) man could stand on the head of a pin, and bow to each other, without being crowded, and room to spare.

And he showed us a book, with a lot of names in it, among them being both of ours, and we thought of those among them, whom we had known so well, who have "Gone to Another Country"—but not through any fault of their own making. And it is in their memory and why they are not still with us, that we recite these few incidents. Regardless of what anybody else tells you, or reports to the contrary, they never had enough to eat—from the day they left home until their return—or half enough. Flunkies in a grading camp or roustabouts with a circus fared far better than they. If this coming summer, there should be shipped in there a carload of beef—being piled in like so much hated hay, not feed—and you open the door and the stench is enough to knock you down and its turning green on the outside and you eat some of it and it makes you sick, you will get a "taste" of what they got—nine miles from the capitol of the nation.

What we think, we don't know; and what we know, we don't think. This was not told us, didn't read about it somewhere, or dream it; we helped unload the stuff. Mehby that's the reason we seldom eat meat any more, as its N. G. out here no how.

May they rest in peace! We shall always remember them for their good qualities, rather than their shortcomings, which if any, have been scribbled in the dust, long ago. For-get-me-nots for them!

And some of those still alive are kidding themselves into the belief they are as good as they were before they went, which, of course, they are not nor never will be. We know from experience, as we've had two very bad sick spells within the last three years.

When you join an outfit of this kind—which never had much of an attraction for many of us—either enter on a "commission" basis or "straight salary." Most of us went the latter way. The former dine regularly and well; the latter "occasionally." And there's a lot of sham and bunk to this line of biz, too. To have to salute an officer every time he coughs. A general may think himself better than a private, but its our "private" opinion, expressed in a "general" way, that its vice versa in a great many instances. We have with us down here an ex-cap. of the world war, but he's as common as the rest of us, now.

He had a thrilling experience, poor fellow, and went through a lot of hardships, but came out O. K. He landed in Wash., (D.C.) where the feed was good and the company agreeable, and stayed there until everything was signed up, along with a lot more, who of course, had to wear their spurs all the time—to keep their feet from slipping off the tables!

And if one wants to get a seasick sensation, sans a trip on the "ean," just be down at the beach, when the fleet is "in town" (they are away now, which is quite a relief, for the time being) and watch the antics of some of these naval officers—the Peacocks of the Sea—with their superior airs, (self-assumed, of course), who imagine themselves so far above the ordinary "clav." Even the petty officers are quite stuck up, and we have seen in our time a corporal try to lord it over some poor private. Of course there are some very fine fellows among them. But its strange what gold braid and stripes does to some people, is it not?

And we often look at that useless pile of junk—floating around, here and there, doing nothing, but a tremendous expense—and think too, what a better use that same money could be put. And it seems a crime to take one of those old, worn-out "bat-line wagons," which have cost so many dollars, and blow it up, when it has so much of value to it and could be tied up somewhere and made some good use of.

Of course its quite interesting to visit one of them or see a searchlight drill; and too, you look nice on dress parade. But, when you are hiking over the hills, with nothing to eat, or sleeping out in the sticks, its different!

And we wish there was some way by which the world could be gathered together, for even an hour, to seriously and thoughtfully consider this barbaric and heathen practice of the killing of men. To keep the commandment, "Thou shalt not kill!"

With the World war a little more than five years past history, a foreign army on German soil, and Europe in a maelstrom of economic disorganization, the European people are again peering anxiously into the immediate future at the spectre of a new war. In France, in Germany and in the maze of small states which divide the map of Europe, the best brains and the best talents of the nations are again being mobilized for preparations which, inevitably, must lead to a new flame of hostilities, new bloodshed, and new destruction.

We hope and pray it will never again happen.

H. H. C. NOTE—I am not unimpressed of the fact that these remarks may be criticized by somebody, (and if we have said anything to be sorry for, why, we are glad of it) but, be that as it may, if it happens, no attention will be paid to it by us. We always aim to tell a thing just as we see or know it, be it of worthless oil stock, fake ads, or whatnot. What anyone says about us—or ever did—we don't give a rap!

There are bigger and better oil fields in Alaska than Teapot Dome, and the next generation seems to be also assured of its petroleum scandal. And Cal. is for Cal. So we should worry!
